APPENDIX A: Dioceses Responding to the 1991 Annual Survey 44

INTRODUCTION

More than 2.6 million families and 8 million individuals in need received services from Catholic Charities in 1990. In addition to providing direct social services such as counseling, food, housing and emergency assistance, Catholic Charities agencies worked with and on behalf of people in need to address the root causes of poverty and other social problems. These efforts include advocacy, legislative action, community organization, social policy development and implementation and community program development.

Catholic Charities USA is the organization that unites the social service agencies operated by most Catholic dioceses in the United States. This network of more than 1,200 Catholic Charities agencies and institutions and over 200,00 volunteers and staff members, carries out the Catholic Church's commitment to accomplishing the goals of charity and justice by assisting people in need without regard to race, color or religion.

Catholic Charities has a special mission to be responsive to those individuals who are most vulnerable in society. Our children and youth represent one of the most vulnerable populations. National research studies continually report that the largest population living in poverty are youth under the age of 18. These children and adolescents are especially affected by many of our larger social problems such as homelessness, AIDS, substance abuse, sexual abuse, violence, etc.

Each year, Catholic Charities USA surveys its member agencies and publishes the data to provide a national picture of its service and advocacy efforts. For 1990, 150 diocesan agencies responded to the Annual Survey. This represents 86% of all dioceses in the United States and 91% of all dioceses in the United States with a Catholic Charities affiliated agency.

I. PERSONNEL

In 1990, over 225,000 people contributed their time and labor to Catholic Charities service and advocacy efforts. This includes 53,108 paid staff members, 158,684 agency and parish volunteers and 13,972 corporate and advisory board members.

Of the total paid staff, 64% are professional or paraprofessional service delivers, 10% are in managerial or administrative positions, 10% provide clerical or administrative support services and 6% provide custodial/maintenance services. The remaining 9% are reported as "other" or "unspecified." For the past 2 years the number of paid staff and the percentage of paid staff in each category has remained relatively stable. However, over the 10-year period from 1980, the number of reported paid staff has increased by 70%.

Overall, the percentage of paid staff who are members of minority groups is 34.8%. Approximately 19% of the managerial and administrative staff are minorities. Over one-fourth of the professional service staff (26.8%) and 42.2% of the paraprofessional staff are minorities. Almost 30% of the clerical and 42% of the custodial/maintenance staff are minorities. Since 1980 the actual number of minorities included in the paid staff has increased by 100%. The overall proportion of minorities in comparison to the total paid staff has increased by 6%.

Two-thirds (66.5%) of the total paid staff are women.

Two-thirds (66%) of the service delivery staff are women. Approximately 40% are executive directors, 56% are associate or branch directors and 67% are office managers. Over 80% of the administrative assistants and clerical staff are women. Over one-third of the custodial staff are women (37.4%). Compared with 1980, the percentage of paid staff who are women has declined by 7.3%. Over this same period, the percentage of women in administrative and managerial positions has increased by 5% with the greatest increase being in the executive director category (16.8% in 1980 compared with 40.1% in 1990).

Beginning in 1989, we asked the diocesan directors to report the educational backgrounds of their professional service and administrative staffs. Although the responses to these questions is lower than to other questions, we can still comment on the general pattern of responses. Over 92% of the program service staff and 99% of the administrative staff have a high school degree or greater. Of the program service staff, 19% have college degrees, 13% have master's degrees and 1% have doctorate degrees. Of the administrative staff, 29% have college degrees, 33% have master's degrees and 3% have doctorate degrees. Overall, the data on educational backgrounds of the program service staff and administrative staff are consistent with the 1989 survey results.

The total number of volunteers in 1990 was 158,684. This represents an increase of 13.8% over the numbers reported in 1989 and a 116% increase over the numbers reported in 1980. Over half (58%) have direct contact with clients and 48% are specially trained for their volunteer service. Of the total number of volunteers, 13% are minorities and 51% are women. Approximately half of the volunteers are agency based and half are parish based. Half of the agencies (51%) report that they have a designated volunteer program and 38% report having a director of volunteers.

The agencies report a total of 6,209 corporate board members. Of these, 13% are minorities and 36% are women. In addition to the corporate board members, the agencies report that 7,173 individuals served on advisory and/or professional review boards.

II. FINANCES

The total cash income reported by Catholic Charities agencies in 1990 was $1,493,768,303, while the total in-kind contributions were $44,822,548. The total of the cash income and in-kind contributions was $1,538,590,851. This represents an increase of approximately $184 million over the figures reported in 1989 and an increase of over $1 billion since 1980.

As in previous years, the largest income source was government grants and contracts for services, comprising over half (54.6%) of the total income. This was followed by program service fees (15.6%). Income from Church sources (Catholic Charities Appeal, fundraising, other contributions, investment income) made up 14.6% of the total. Contributions from the United Way provided an additional 5.6%. Grants comprised less than 1% of total income and "other" or "unspecified" comprised 9.1% of the total income.

If we examine the trends in major income sources over the past 10 years we find the following pattern:

Source	1980	1985	1989	1990
Government	46.4%	44.3%	54.5%	54.6%
Program Fees	22.4%	18.3%	14.5%	15.6%
Church	18.4%	21.2%	13.7%	14.6%
United Way	8.4%	9.0%	6.5%	5.6%
Foundation Grants	1.6%	0.8%	0.9%	0.6%
Other/Unspecified	2.6%	6.4%	9.9%	9.1

When the data for 1980 are compared with the data for 1990, it is shown that funds from government sources has increased by 8.2%. Funds from program fees decreased by 6.8%. Fund from Church sources decreased by 3.8%. Funds from United Way declined by 2.8%. Funds from foundation grants decreased by 1%. Funds included in the "other" or "unspecified" category increased by 6.5%. These represent relatively minor shifts given a 10-year period. In each of the major categories there has been a significant increase in actual dollars provided to Catholic Charities. The 1980-1990 actual dollar increases show that funds from government sources increased by 245%, funds from program fees increased 103%, funds from Church sources increased 132%, funds from United Way increased 95% and funds from grants increased 15%.

Of the total expenditures in 1990, over 88% was allocated to direct program expenditures. This included $1,321,748,945 for program services and $134,297,599 for emergency financial assistance. The actual number of dollars for emergency financial assistance increased by 132% over 1989. In addition to direct program expenditures, 9% was spent on overhead and 2% on public relations and fundraising.

III. SOCIAL SERVICES

A. OVERVIEW

In 1990, Catholic Charities agencies provided services to over 2 million children, 4 million adults, almost 1 million aging persons and over 2 million families. The services include:

- Counseling Services
- Pregnancy Services
- Adoption Services
- Refugee/Immigration Services
- Education and Family Support Services
- Socialization and Neighborhood Services
- Food Services
- Emergency/Crisis Services
- Support Services
- Housing Services
- Out-of-Home Services

Table III.1 contains the data on the number of children, adults, aging persons and families who were recipients of services.

More than 5 million individuals and over 1.5 million families received emergency/crisis and food services. These include shelters for homeless adults and families, shelters for those who are abused and shelters for runaway youth as well as emergency financial, food, clothing, furniture and medical assistance. Services were also provided to vulnerable people such as victims of rape and abuse as well as legal offenders.

Over 600,000 individuals and 21,401 families received social support services. These services include daycare, respite care, homemaker services, transportation services, employment services and housing search, phone reassurance services, hospice and hospice for persons with AIDS.

Counseling services such as individual, marital and family counseling as well as group counseling, peer counseling and hot-line counseling were provided to 567,298 individuals and 175,056 families.

Refugee resettlement and immigration services such as family reunification, education, housing, health, legal and employment services were provided to 286,720 individuals and 91,099 families.

More than 100,000 individuals and over 40,000 families received pregnancy and adoption services. A total of 3,445 adoptions were completed. Of these, 997 were children with special needs and 342 were international adoptions. The types of pregnancy services include pre and postnatal care, housing and material assistance, pregnancy counseling and continuing education. Some 53,103 pregnant women received services and 8,507 birth fathers received services.

Over 95,000 individuals and 21,401 families received housing services. These services include housing units for the elderly, families and the disabled as well as single room occupancies (SRO).

Out-of-home care services such as foster care, group homes and residential care facilities were provided to 103,703 individuals and 19,305 families.

Education and family support services as well as socialization and neighborhood services were received by 867,745 individuals and 168,572 families. These services include family life education, marriage preparation, natural family planning education, education for social justice, summer camp for youth, summer camp for the elderly and neighborhood centers.

B. SPECIFIC SERVICES PROVIDED

1. Counseling Services

Ninety percent of the 150 agencies report offering counseling services. Of those who report having counseling services, almost all provided individual counseling (98.5%), family counseling (97.7%) and marital counseling (97.7%). Over 80% report providing premarital counseling (80.8%) and group counseling (84.4%). Less than half of the agencies report offering peer counseling (41.5%) and hot-line counseling (28.1%).

The counseling services most frequently offered by an agency within the parish context are individual counseling (44.4%), family counseling (40.7%) and marital counseling (40.7%). Less than one-third of the agencies provide premarital counseling (31.1.%), group counseling (22.9%), peer counseling (9.6%) and hot-line counseling (2.2%) within the parish context.

2. Pregnancy Services

Over 85% of the agencies report providing pregnancy services (87.3%). The vast majority of these provided pregnancy counseling (97.7%) and material assistance to pregnant women (81.7%). Over half or 68 agencies provide pre and postnatal care (51.9%), housing for pregnant women (59.5%) and continuing education for pregnant and parenting clients (63.4%). Only one-third of the agencies provide pregnancy testing (34.4%).

With the exception of pregnancy counseling (13.7%) and material assistance to pregnant women (41.4%), less than 10% of the agencies provide pregnancy services within a parish context.

3. Adoption Services

Over 80% of the agencies report that they have a specific program for providing adoption services. In 1990, 3,445 adoptions were completed with 997 of these being children with special needs and 342 being international adoptions. Over 80% of the agencies report that they have specific programs for infant adoptions (96.7%), post-adoption services (89.5%), services to adult adoptees (83.1%) and pre-adoption foster care placement (90.3%). Over 70% have a program for children with special needs (71.8%) and 41.1% have a program for international adoptions.

As to be expected, few agencies provide adoption services within a parish context.

4. Refugee Resettlement/Immigration Services

During 1990, Catholic Charities agencies provided refugee resettlement/immigration services to 286,720 individuals and 91,099 families. Over 70% of the agencies report that they have specific programs for providing refugee resettlement/immigration services. Over 80% of these agencies have programs for family reunification (98.2%) and pre-reception preparation (86.4%). Over half of the agencies report having programs for employment services (71.8%), housing placement (60.9%), legal services (59.1%), language education (59.1%) and unaccompanied minors (55.5%). Less than half offer general education services (40.9%) and health services (42.7%).

Few agencies provide refugee resettlement/immigration services within the parish context. Between 8% and 10% of the agencies provide the following services in a parish setting: pre-reception preparation (10.1%), family reunification (8.2%), language education (8.2%) and employment services (8.2%).

5. Education and Family Support Services

Over three-fourths or 119 agencies report having specific programs for providing education and family support services. During 1990, 377,789 individuals and 78,485 families were the recipients of these services. Over half of the agencies report that they provide parenting education (69.7%), family life education (58.8%) and drug and alcohol education (57.1%). Over 30% report providing marriage preparation (47.9%), education for social justice (42.9%), natural family planning education (36.9%), adult education (36.1%) and literacy education (31.1%). Less than one-fourth provide values clarification education (25.5%), special education (21.0%) and head start (13.4%).

Over 30% of the agencies report that they provide education and family support services within the parish context. These programs include family life education (32.7%), parenting education (30.2%) and education for social justice (31.9%). Over 20% report that they provide marriage preparation (26.1%) and adult education (21.8%) in a parish setting.

6. Socialization and Neighborhood Services

Less than half of the agencies report that they have programs for providing socialization and neighborhood services (44.6%). Over half of the agencies report that they have a summer camp for youth program (50.7%) and that they have a Golden Age/Senior Center program (58.2%). Over 20% report a CYO program (20.9%), a sports program (20.9%) and a neighborhood center (41.8%).

Over 10% of the agencies report that they provide the following services in a parish setting: Golden Age/Senior Centers (22.4%), CYO (13.4%), sports (13.4%), summer camp for youth (13.4%) and neighborhood centers (10.4%).

7. Food Services

During 1990, Catholic Charities agencies provided food services to 2,517,123 individuals and 898,067 families. Over 40% of the agencies report that they have specific programs for providing food services. These programs include food banks (83.6%), nutrition services (64.2%), soup kitchens (49.3%) and meals-on-wheels services (29.9%).

One-third of the agencies report that food bank services are provided in a parish setting (32.8%) and 28.3% report that they have soup kitchen services within a parish setting.

8. Emergency/Crisis Services

During 1990, Catholic Charities agencies provided emergency/crisis services to 2,585,250 individuals and 627,569 families. Over 75% of the agencies report that they have specific programs for providing emergency/crisis services (76%). Over three-fourths of the agencies report having specific programs for emergency financial assistance (92.9%), emergency food services (82.4%) and emergency clothing (78.9%). Over one-third report operating shelters for homeless adults and families (45.6%), providing emergency medication (61.4%) and providing services to abused adults (40.4%) and abused elderly (36.8%).

The emergency/crisis services provided by the agencies in a parish context are emergency financial assistance (30.7%), emergency clothing (30.7%) and emergency food services (28.9%).

9. Social Support Services

Over half of the agencies report having programs to provide social support services (58%). The dominant services include employment services (67.8%), transportation services (64.4%), child day care (55.2%), phone reassurance/friendly visits (74.7%), housing search (49.4%), respite care (42.5%), homemaker services (44.8%) and independent living services (41.4%).

The social support services most often provided in a parish setting are phone reassurance/friendly visits (26.4%) and transportation services (16.1%).

10. Housing Services

Over one-third of the agencies report that they have programs for providing housing services. Over half of the agencies report that they have programs for providing housing units for the elderly (72.4%) and housing units for the disabled (50.0%). Forty-eight percent have programs for housing families and 31% have a single room occupancy (SRO) program.

Over 10% of the agencies report that they provide housing services in a parish setting. These include housing units for the elderly (18.9%) and housing units for families (10.3%).

11. Out-of-Home Care Services

Two-thirds of the agencies provide some form of out-of-home care (66.6%). During 1990, 103,703 individuals and 19,305 families received out-of-home care services. A total of 61,981 children and adolescents were the recipients of foster care, group home or residential care. Over 23,000 adults receive residential or group home care and 17,906 aged persons received residential care or foster care.

C. SPECIFIC POPULATIONS SERVED

In the 1990 survey, the respondents were asked to provide information of the populations served by their agencies. Table III.3 contains the number and percent of agencies which have specific programs for delivering social services to special populations.

Over 70% of the agencies report that they have specific programs for serving the following special populations:

- Pregnant teenagers
- Troubled adolescents
- Refugees/immigrants/migrants
- People suffering from grief/loss

Over 50% of the agencies report that they have specific programs for serving the following populations:

- Homeless persons
- Victims of family violence
- Victims of sexual abuse
- Persons with mental disabilities
- Unemployed persons
- People with addictions
- Undocumented persons
- Women who have had abortions

Over one-third of the agencies report that they have specific programs for serving the following populations:

- Persons with physical disabilities
- Persons with AIDS
- Victims of elder abuse
- Prisoners/ex-offenders
- Juvenile offenders

D. SPECIFIC SOCIAL SERVICE ISSUES

Each year we include in the survey questionnaire a series of questions on specific social service issues. This year we focus on hunger and homelessness, services to military families, disaster relief services, addiction programs, child day care and the delivery of social services.

1. Hunger and Homelessness

Almost 90% of the agencies report that the number of requests for emergency food assistance increased during the last year. Less than 3% of the agencies reported that the demand for emergency food decreased and 7% reported that the demand remained the same. The percentage increase ranged from 1% to 200% with a mean of 25% and a median of 16%. This means that over half of the agencies reported a 16% or greater increase in demand for emergency food.

One-third of the agencies report that the level of resources (e.g. funds, volunteers, food, etc.) available to emergency food assistance facilities increased during the past year, 10% reported that the resources decreased and 47% reported that the resources remained the same.

Over half of the agencies (59%) report that emergency food assistance facilities turn away people in need because of lack of resources.

Over three-fourths of the agencies report that the total number of people requesting emergency shelter in their area has increased during the past year (78.8%). Less than 2% report that the demand for shelter has declined and 18% report that the demand for emergency shelter has stayed the same. The percentage increase ranged from 3% to 99% with a mean of 22% and a median of 22%. Half of the agencies report that the demand for emergency shelter has increased by 20% or more during the past year.

Over 40% of the respondents report that the number of emergency shelter beds has increased during the past year, 8% report that the number of beds has declined and 50% report that the number of beds has stayed the same.

Over three-fourths (78.4%) of the agencies report that homeless people in need have to be turned away from emergency shelters because of lack of resources.

2. Services to Military Families

One-third (32.5%) of the agencies report that they have a specific program for providing social services to military families. These agencies report providing services to a total of 3,770 military families.

3. Disaster Relief Services

Over one-third (35.4%) of the agencies report being involved in disaster relief services during 1990. One-fifth (20%) of these agencies report that they were the lead agency in providing disaster relief services. During 1990, 39,759 people were the recipients of disaster relief. The types of disasters responded to include: hurricanes/tornados (40%), floods (20%), fires (17.7%) and earthquakes (6.6%).

4. Addiction Programs

One-third (35.7%) of the agencies report having a specific treatment program for addictions. During 1990, the number of people who received addiction services was 61,870. The types of addictions these programs address are alcohol (82.2%), drugs (77.7%), food (11.1%) and sex (6.6%).

5. Child Day Care

One-third (32.6%) of the agencies report that they have a child day care program. During 1990, 43,635 children received day care. One-third (34.2%) or 14,918 of these children were from low income families.

6. Delivery of Social Services

Over 90% of the agencies report that they collaborate with other private or public agencies in the delivery of social services. The areas in which there were collaborative efforts are:

- Emergency assistance
- Services to the homeless
- Services to the elderly
- Child welfare/child protection

During 1990, 92 agencies or 61.3% of all reporting agencies, developed new social service delivery programs. Programs related to meeting the needs of children and youth were the most dominant new programs. These include:

- Child adoption/foster care
- Recruitment of foster parents
- Development of runaway youth shelters
- Drug prevention programs
- AIDS education programs

In the 1990 survey, the respondents were asked to report on the percentage of people who receive social services free of charge. Over three-fourths (77.3%) of the respondents reported on this question. The responses ranged from 6% to 99% with a median of 75%. This means that on the average over 75% of the people served by Catholic Charities agencies receive services free of charge.

When asked to report on the three most important unmet social service needs in their area, 72% of the respondents selected housing/homelessness. This was followed by community mental health services (27%), health care (23%), addiction treatment (17%) and employment (16%).

As to be expected, the respondents overwhelmingly reported lack of finance (96%) as the major obstacle facing their agency in the delivery of social services. This was followed by lack of trained staff (19%).

- Refugee/Migrants (9%)

B. INFLUENCING PUBLIC POLICY

In 1990, 85% of the agencies reported that they were involved in influencing public policy development and/or implementation at the local, state or national level. Over two-thirds report that they participated on government commissions or committees at the local level (75%) and state level (66%). Only 15% report that they participated on government commissions or committees on the national level. Over 80% report that they provided consultation to public officials at the local level (81%) and state level (87%). Only 41% report doing this at the national level. Over half of the agencies report that they participated in the development or revision of regulations at the local level (55%) and state level (89%). One-fourth (28%) report doing this at the national level. Over half of the agencies report that they participated on coalitions with other social service agencies at the local level (88%), state level (95%) and national level (50%). Over half report that they provided testimony on social policy issues at the local level (57%), state level (76%) and national level (15%).

C. COMMUNITY PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT

In 1990, 92 agencies reported that they were involved in maintaining or developing community based programs. These agencies report developing 295 programs in the areas of housing corporations (63), cooperative organizations (63), neighborhood/parish councils (108), senior citizen centers (22), economic development corporations (19) and health care centers (20). Besides these efforts, the agencies report being involved in 607 community programs developed prior to 1990.

D. ADVOCACY EFFORTS

In 1990, Catholic Charities agencies report being involved in advocacy efforts with and on behalf of a large number of vulnerable and/or disenfranchised people. Over half of the agencies report advocacy efforts on behalf of:

- Homeless persons
- People with AIDS
- People with addictions

Over 40% of the agencies report advocacy efforts on behalf of:

- Pregnant teenagers
- Persons with physical disabilities
- Refugees/immigrants/migrants
- Persons with mental disabilities

V. PARISH SOCIAL MINISTRY

Over one-third (36.7%) of the agencies report that they are involved in parish social ministry. Of these, 41 agencies report having a full-time director, 5 agencies report having both a full-time and part-time director. The agencies report that parish social ministry is active in 4,445 parishes or in 25% of all parishes in the United States. These programs aim to involve parishioners in helping their neighbors in need. Some 71,530 individuals are reported as being parish level volunteers. Social services such as counseling, refugee services, emergency services, socialization and family support services are all reported as being provided with a parish context.

Over half of the agencies which report having parish social ministry report that they provide services to the following vulnerable or disenfranchised populations:

- People suffering from grief/loss (100%)
- Refugees/immigrants/migrants (64%)
- Women who have had abortions (57%)
- Homeless persons (55%)
- People with addictions (51%)
